| Short Presentation: ECE is a 4 year postsecondary business school belonging to the INSEEC Group. For the last 30 years, the INSEEC Group has trained over 12000 students. It is composed of 8 schools in France with approximately 7000 students, in three cities ( Paris, Bordeaux, and Lyon ). Courses are taught by some 500 teachers and business professionals. The INSEEC/ECE Group boasts rich and varied international programs and activities with exchange agreements signed with over 120 foreign universities and business schools.In the context of strong international development, the ECE schools offer high-level courses in business and management, and extensive company internships along with academic semesters throughout the world. |
| Facilities and Conditions: There is free access for students to the computer room ( with internet ). A personal code is given to each student, as well as an email address. Students can also access the school's intranet which offers educational resources. Students can also store their personal data on the intranet. A computer science teacher will teach students how to use the material.The ECE does not have its own restaurant or cafeteria. However, the school is well located and there are many places to eat near the school at affordable prices.The ECE Student Office organizes a variety of different activities for students.  |

Why ECE - École de Commerce Européenne, Lyon: Lyon is the capital of the Rhône-Alpes region and the third largest town in France. It is located in the south of France and near a large range of vacation spots. Its geographical position between Northern and Southern Europe, strengthened by its significant infrastructure and communication facilities, make it the second most important economic region of France.

The ECE's objective is to train young executive, who are, in an international context, immediately operational upon integration into a company. Teaching at ECE is in line with the demands of French, European and international companies; intercultural and linguistic knowledge and skills, a high level of general culture, a professional and academic experience in France and abroad.
